Retailer Notes:

Much of the industry seems to be in a state of flux: US Renditions is out with a new series of licensed music CDís, AnimEigo has formally announced their new Hong Kong live action line ("Samurai Cinema"), and it seems that Orion has lost the Lupin III: Cagliostro Castle movie.

Also on the Orion front, theyíve announced with no prior warning that Vampire Hunter D is being discontined effective immediately. Fortunately, weíve gotten in a shipment of them just before this happened, but when theyíre gone the title is history.

Ghost in the Shell continues to break all the records: expect this to become the best selling anime title in the US before the year is out (itís rapidly approaching the Akira mark). Pioneer scored big with the airing of the Tenchi Muyo movie on the SF channel late last month.

Manga releases the edited first volume of Violence Jack this month (the unedited version will be available from Critical Mass Video at a later date). CPMís big experiment also arrives this month: Armored Trooper Votoms. This 1980ís giant robot television show is being released in four parts with each part consisting of several volumes and a box set arriving simultaineously. Finally, the first series of Demon Beast Invasion winds up this month with part 6.

JEFF'S PICK OF THE MONTH

Dragon Ball is one of the coolest series thatís ever been run on Japanese TV, but the show is pretty much aimed at children in the US. Itís gorgeous though, and the work done to prepare it for the US market is excellent. Still, to err on the side of caution Iíd go with the Ranma Ω: Once upon a time in Jusenkyo title.

This tape contains one of the best episodes in the entire later series. In terms of an honorable mention, Iíd opt for the second volume of Weather Report Girl (which is even funnier than the first).
